

SAVE THE DATE!

2010 Southeast Regional Early Hearing Detection and Intervention (EHDI) Conference

July 26 – 27, 2010

University of Tennessee Conference Center
Knoxville, Tennessee

(Hosted by Tennessee's Newborn Hearing Screening Program)

Conference presentations will focus on timely topics related to Universal Newborn Hearing Screening, pediatric amplification, early intervention, and family support. Presenters include: Arelene Stredler-Brown, Deborah Chen, Todd Houston, Patti Martin, Sarah McKay, and Randi Winston. Jobs-alike and state planning sessions will be included in the agenda, as will a fantastic array of exhibitors and a parent-focused pre-conference seminar. Poster presentation opportunities and continuing education units will also be available. Please let others know about this exciting conference!

Knoxville, Tennessee is a beautiful city with many local attractions, including the Great Smoky Mountain National Park and fun-filled Dollywood. No matter where you travel from, a visit to East Tennessee

Registration will begin March 1, 2010.

Please check periodically with the UT Conference Center website for updates.

<http://www.outreach.tennessee.edu/Conferences/new/events/info.html>

2010 Southeast Regional EHDI... Let the Learning Continue!

The 2010 Southeast Regional EHDI Conference is funded in part by CDC grant 1H13HM000683-10 (75% of total conference cost). The remaining amount (25%) of the projected conference costs will be supported through non-federal funds and the generous support of the National Center for Hearing Assessment and Management.

