

PLEASE ATTEND: Georgia Pathway to Language and Literacy (GA Pathway)

“I know I can”

Thursday, August 4, 2011
8:30am - 12:30pm

What is GA Pathway? Georgia Pathway to Language and Literacy (GA Pathway) is a coalition of local professional and parent organizations who have come together to: 1) Advance the literacy proficiency of Georgia’s children who are deaf or hard of hearing (D/HH); and 2) Achieve grade-level reading proficiency by the end of third grade for all Georgia students with hearing loss, regardless of their communication modality. We want our membership to include all who are committed to our children achieving these goals.

What is the “I know I can” conference about? The Conference is a FREE event hosted by GA Pathway and GPB. We will hear national and state leaders speak on the need for change and potential solutions. We will launch a new online Community of Practice to advance D/HH literacy goals in GA.

Who should attend? All educators, professionals, parents, lawmakers, and community leaders and members who care about the literacy crisis for D/HH children are welcome. Interpreters will be provided.

When is the conference? August 4, 2011 from 8:30 am to 12:30 pm. Luncheon to follow.

Where is the conference? The live program will be held at the Georgia Public Broadcasting (GPB) Studios at 260 14th Street NW, Atlanta, GA. You may also choose to attend online via the GPB website.

How do I register? It is FREE to register. 1) Go to the following link: <https://enstg.com/signup>, 2) Accept the Security Certificate, 3) Enter the Conference Code: GAX86504, and 4) Enter your information. You will receive follow-up emails confirming your attendance and providing more information.
